NASA Tech Shop Bennington Motorsports to Provide Trackside Support

Bennington Motorsports is pleased to announce their new and innovative trackside support program for drivers in the 944 Spec Series.

Starting with the Autobahn race the weekend of July 16-18 and continuing through the rest of the NASA Midwest season, Bennington Motorsports will be expanding their trackside support program to include car prep for each car in the Series! Prior to each session, Nick and his staff will set tire pressures, check fluid levels, and torque wheels along with other service or inspections as requested.

“We wish to thanks Nick Miller, owner of Benninton Motorsports for his efforts to improve the safety and experience of the drivers in the 944 Spec Series.”, said Bryan Cohn, Director of Competition for NASA Midwest, Inc.

Eric Kuhns, 944 Spec Series Director for NASA Midwest and Great Lakes said, “Nick’s trackside support includes food, car prep, one hour of diagnosis and labor for major repairs and access to the huge spare parts supply that is carried in the Bennington hauler. The expansion of Bennington Motorsports sponsorship and support of 944 Spec is second to none!”
